FUTURISTIC HUMAN TRACKING IS HERE

New York, NY

Personal privacy will become a thing of the past this July, when hackers unveil technology that could send privacy advocates into a panic mode.

Conference attendees will witness first hand while voluntarily wearing futuristic RFID badges what human tracking capabilities have become.

This system, termed OpenAMD, will both show the fun and reveal the dark side of familiar social networking websites like MySpace.

In addition to making the entire project open source, developers can now create their own software before the conference using the newly released public API.

For more information, visit their website at <http://amd.hope.net> or contact the OpenAMD team at amd@hope.net.
